EVENT OVERVIEW

The event begins with each team given a booklet detailing all 100 challenges they must complete in the given time. The host gives a brief introduction, detailing the rules of the event, how the point system works, and how to win these all-important points. After the briefing, the event starts, and it is free for all! Team race around each zone, trying to complete as many activities as possible. Each of the 5 stations is manned by a marshal, who judges each team's effort and allocates either 30, 20, or 10 points.

Rounds include: Sensory, Physical, Creative, Child's Play and Brain Busters.

Once the time is up, each team's points are added up and the top three are announced. Medals are given out to each team and the winning team receives a bottle of bubbly.

An event based on having fun and working together as a team towards a common goal, our starburst event is the ideal combination between collaboration and simply having a good time! Give your employees an event that will definitely be the topic of discussion at the office tomorrow!

A woman with long brown hair, wearing a red and white striped shirt, is singing enthusiastically into a microphone. She has her eyes closed and a joyful expression. In the background, several other people are smiling and clapping, creating a lively and positive atmosphere. A man on the right is holding a large black boombox. The setting appears to be an indoor event space with a brick wall in the background.
